

JUNE 2010 EXAMINATIONS

Students who have registered to sit examinations in June 2010 can check if their examination request has been processed on the Student Services website. To do so, login and click on 'Exam Service'; this area details your examination history and includes entries for future examination sessions. Approximately one month before the examination date students will receive a letter confirming the exact location and time of their examinations.

EXAMINATION DEFERRALS

If after having applied to sit an examination in June 2010, you are then unable to sit the examination as scheduled, you may defer your examination until a future diet, without financial penalty, provided that you advise the School before the deadline date. The deferral date for the June 2010 exams is 1 May. You can defer by logging into the Exam Service section on the Student Service website. If you defer after this date, you will not be automatically entered for the next major diet of examinations and you will need to repay the examination fee.
